This screenshot shows the 'My Picks' page for the FootballHero Championship. It features a similar layout to the first one, with a statistics bar at the top. The 'SPORT' column in the stats table is circled in pink. The page then lists 'OPEN PREDICTIONS' and 'CLOSED PREDICTIONS' for football matches between Chelsea and Stoke City, and Celtic and Motherwell. At the bottom is a navigation bar with icons for clock, trophy, user, game controller, and message.

This screenshot shows the 'My Picks' page for basketball. It follows the same structure as the previous screens. The 'SPORT' column in the stats table is circled in pink. The page lists 'OPEN PREDICTIONS' and 'CLOSED PREDICTIONS' for basketball games between Brooklyn Nets and Stoke City, and Chicago Bulls and Milwaukee Bucks. At the bottom is a navigation bar with icons for clock, trophy, user, game controller, and message.

For first level pages, we will have a common simple background...
e.g. MyPicks -> Sport (All, Football, Basketball, etc)

Second-level pages will have a specific background (1/2)

The image displays three screenshots of a mobile application interface, showing the progression from a general sports dashboard to a specific basketball match prediction screen.

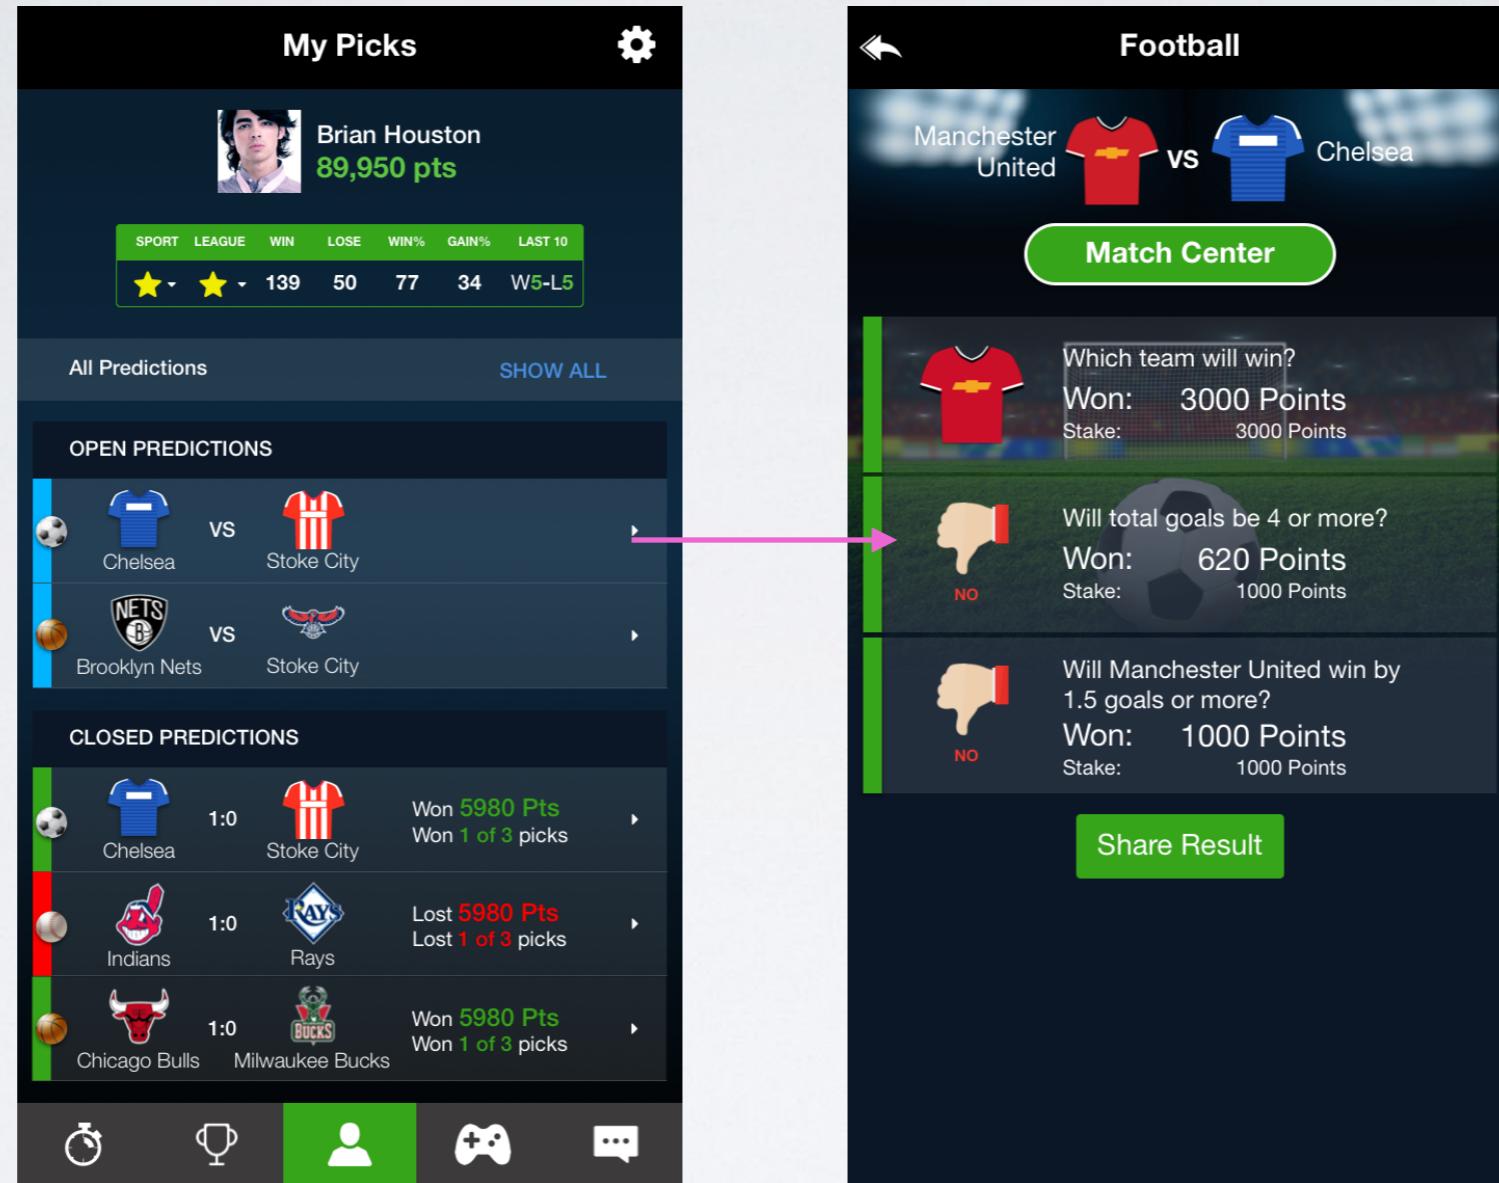

SportsHero Dashboard: The first screenshot shows a dark-themed dashboard with various sports categories on the left: Football (123,989 users), Basketball (43,490 users), Tennis (24,049 users), Baseball (12,904 users), Volleyball (1,209 users), Golf (5,897 users), and American Football (1,245 users). On the right, there's a sidebar with team names like Iran, Chelsea, China, and Celtic, along with their flags.

Basketball Match Prediction Screen: The second screenshot shows a list of basketball matches. The top match is highlighted with a pink oval: "Brooklyn Nets vs Atlanta Hawks" on April 27, Monday at 17:00. Below it are other NBA games: Portland Trail Blazers vs Memphis Grizzlies, Chicago Bulls vs Milwaukee Bucks, and Los Angeles Clippers vs San Antonio Spurs. Each game row includes team logos, player statistics (70% won, Played 3/5, 100 fans), and a gear icon. At the bottom are navigation icons for clock, trophy, user, game controller, and speech bubble.

Basketball Game Preview Screen: The third screenshot provides a detailed preview for the Brooklyn Nets vs Atlanta Hawks game. It features a large basketball in the background. The teams' logos are at the top. The question "Which team will win?" is centered. Below it, "Balance 99000 Points" and "Stake 1000 Points" are displayed. A "3x" multiplier button with three stars is shown. At the bottom, two options are presented: "Stand to Win 1770 Points" next to the Brooklyn Nets logo, and "Stand to Win 1970 Points" next to the Atlanta Hawks logo. Each option has a circular selection button with a number (1, 2, or 3) and a checkmark.

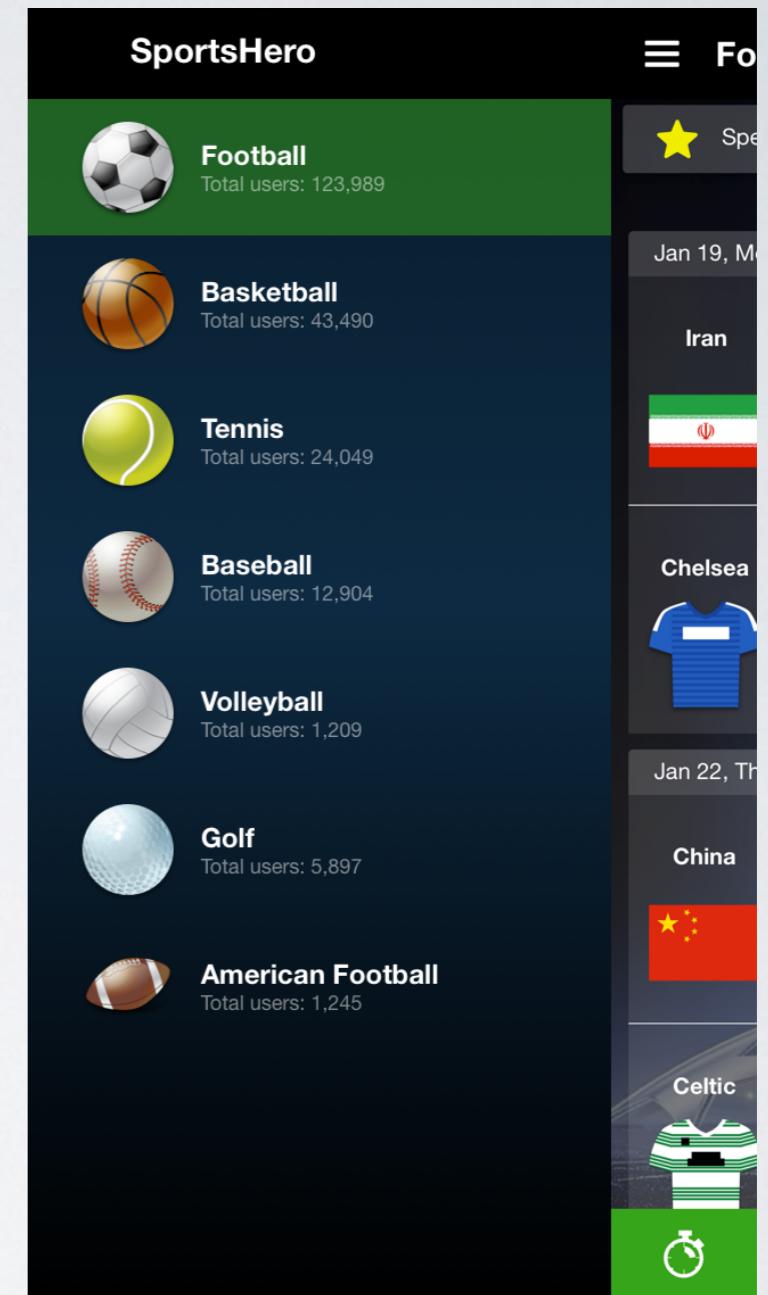

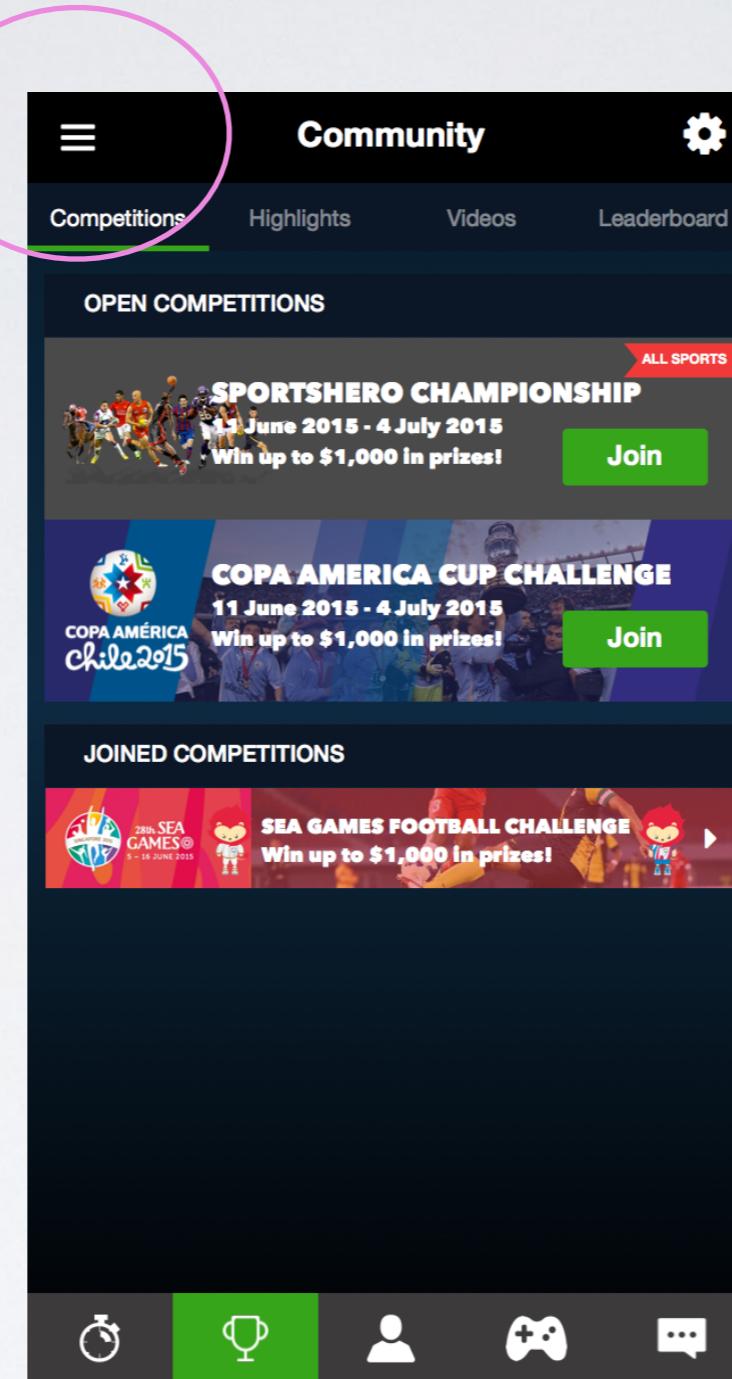

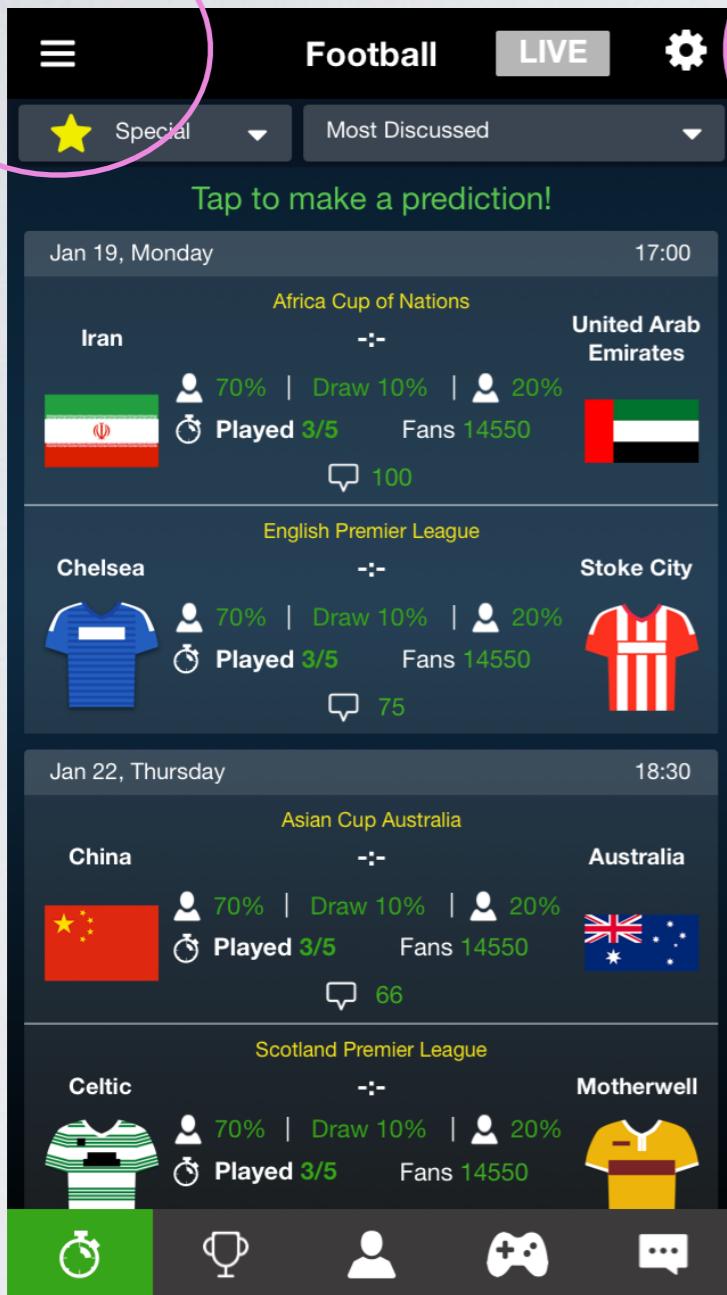

For second level pages, we will have one background tied to each sport
e.g. Match tab-> Basketball -> Brooklyn Nets Vs Atlanta Hawks

Second-level pages will have a specific background (2/2)

NOTE: For competition room, the background will be a specific background too...
